Two Held to Grand Jury.

In Justice Fretwell's court Wednesday Dan Anderson, a negro, charged with mistreating Maggie McGovern, a little ten-year-old negro girl, was held to the November term of the Bourbon Circuit Court in the sum of $300 bail. Anderson was defended by Attorney P. A. Thompson.

Justice Fretwell imposed a fine of $25 and costs on Theodore Carter, who, in a quarrel with T. A. Hill at Black's Cross Roads, this county, slashed the latter with a knife.

The trial of Charles Smith, a negro, which was held Wednesday in Judge January's court, resulted in his being held to the grand jury in $200 bond. Smith was charged with stealing $30 from Lotta Thomas, a negro.

Lot Sale in Millersburg.

Yesterday afternoon the little city of Millersburg was the scene of the greatest lot sale ever held within its limits. The new addition recently purchased by the Henry Realty Co., of this city, was formally opened and eighty-five lots divided from the tract were disposed of at prices ranging from $20 to $375. A strip of four acres of lands was sold for $215 per acre. The crowd, it is estimated, numbered 1,500 people.

RELIGIOUS.

—The Kentucky Baptist Association is in session at Cynthiana this week.

—Elder Carey E. Morgan will be in his pulpit Sunday morning and evening.

—Dr. B. M. Shive will be in his pulpit Sunday morning at 10:30 instead of 10:45 and evening at seven o'clock.

—Rev. J. M. Maxon will be in his pulpit at the Episcopal church Sunday morning at 10:45 and evening at 7 o'clock.

—Rev. J. T. Sharrard, formerly of Paris, who is in Colorado for the benefit of health, writes that he is considerably improved.

—Rev. Crockett of the Methodist church will preach the union Thanksgiving sermon at the Christian church Thursday morning, Thanksgiving Day, at ten o'clock.

—Rev. F. H. Wright, the Indian evangelist, who conducted such a successful revival at the Presbyterian church in this city several weeks ago will begin an evangelistic meeting in Cynthiana on Sunday, November 20.

—To the members of the First Presbyterian church, and all who desire to worship with us:

Owing to the elaborate service of music that we have at every service and other forms that we feel are healthful and attractive, that necessarily prolong the service to some extent, and owing to the fact that quite a large number of the membership and congregation live in the country and some of them on the interurban line, and for the latter, it being especially desirable that the services close in ample time to get the twelve o'clock car, it has been determined by the session to change the hour of our morning service from 10:45 to 11:30, so that the service may close not later than 11:45. Please bear the change in mind. Service on Sunday morning, November 20 begins promptly at 10:30.

Your pastor,
B. M. SHIVE.

Thanksgiving Day will be very duly observed by all good Democrats, as they have much to give thanks for. Mr. Roosevelt's new nationalism—the concentration of great power, which under the Constitution is reserved to the people of the several states—is buried with its author under an avalanche of opposing votes. For such a signal favor, supreme thanks should be given.

The standpatties have been defeated and a people's congress, pledged to tariff revision downward, has been given power to carry out the pledge; for this favor, high or low, rich or poor, should give thanks.

Honest and patriotic Republicans have helped us Democrats to gain a great victory to the end that equal rights to all and special privileges to none may be the law of the land, and for this both will join in giving thanks.

A Good Day's Work.

John A. Dix elected Governor of New York, and Teddy laid up for a term of innocuous desuetude.

Judson Harmon re-elected Governor of Ohio, and the Taft political machine laid up for repairs.

Woodrow Wilson elected Governor of New Jersey, and the trust magnates have taken to the woods for fear of dire results.

Simeon E. Baldwin elected Governor of Connecticut, and Republican plunderers praying for mercy and promising restitution.

Eugene N. Foss elected Governor of Massachusetts, and the rotten Lodge ring sent to the dump pile.

A Democratic House of Representatives elected, and only three months more of standpatism, Cannonism and extravagance.

A Democratic cyclone strikes Illinois and several other states.

Looking Ahead.

The election over, the Lexington Herald suggests that we begin to look to the future and to the election that is to be held a year hence when half the Senate, and a full House of Representatives will be chosen.

The Herald points to many questions of vital importance that are to be raised. A revision of the tax laws is a question of the greatest import and no man should be selected to represent a county in the Legislature who is not capable of intelligently making his views known on this subject.

Other important moves are in the direction of a revision of our election laws, a movement toward the establishment of good roads and a better educational system.

In concluding the Herald says: "If in Kentucky we can project discussions along such lines instead of along the lines of personalities; if we can have the views of men in regard to the tax question, in regard to the educational system, in regard to the improvement of the roads, the decisive question as to whether they are elected or not elected to public office, instead of having mere personality and views on matters of minor importance control, political contests will be on a higher plane and Kentucky's future be much brighter."

Best Walking Horse.

The question as to who has the best walking horse in the county was settled Saturday afternoon at the Bourbon fair grounds, and the premium was awarded to Warren Rogers of Cane Ridge. W. B. Woodford got second premium and Ben Woodford third.

The contest took place in the arena and was spirited throughout, there being seven contestants, W. B. Woodford, E. B. Sparks, B. F. Hopkins and Thomas Buckner.

Mr. Rogers, the winner, rode his horse to town, a distance of ten miles. The horse was sired by the noted walking and saddle stallion, Joe Blackburn. The contest has been the absorbing topic among farmers for several weeks and was witnessed by nearly one hundred farmers, many of whom were accompanied by their wives. The judges were H. S. Caywood, C. C. Clark and Gano Hildreth.

Compliments Paris Firm.

The Glasgow (Ky.) Times, edited by ex-Congressman J. M. Richardson, has this editorial in the last issue of his paper:

"The Times notes with interest that Hon. R. B. Franklin, of Frankfort, and Mr. R. C. Talbott, of Paris, Ky., have formed a partnership for the practice of law in all important civil cases in the Circuit Courts of Kentucky, the United States Courts of Kentucky, and the Kentucky Court of Appeals. This firm will soon take rank as one of the greatest legal partnerships in Kentucky—or indeed in any State."

"Of Bob Franklin, the famous commonwealth's attorney in the Frankfort district, it is unnecessary to speak. He is one of the most brilliant intellects in the State, and as an orator stands second to none anywhere. As a prosecutor he is the foremost in a State noted for its orators, and his fame has traveled far and wide. Long after he has mouldered back to original dust his great speeches in the Goebel trials will stir humanity and live as models of choice language, powerful appeal, close and logical reasoning, terrific invective and glowing eloquence. He has been mentioned for both governor and United States Senator, but, while always found on the firing line when duty calls, the glittering allurements of politics have not wooed him from the profession in which he is at once an ornament and a leader. He has been counsel on one side or the other in all important cases in Central Kentucky for a decade."

"While not so widely known, in that he has sedulously devoted himself to his profession to the exclusion of all else, Mr. Talbott is concededly recognized as one of the foremost lawyers in his section. For twenty-seven years he has been associated with Mr. W. H. McMillan, and the firm of McMillan & Talbott stands well at the top in Bourbon and adjoining counties and in all the blue grass section. Industrious, painstaking, clear and correct in his pleadings, perfect and convincing in the subject matter of his briefs, a student ever armed with all the law in any case, it is said of him that he has never been taken by surprise by any authority presented by the attorney in opposition. In love with his life-work, a student with a mind as clear as a bell and as strong as the strongest, he is not only a great lawyer, but one whose greatness will grow with each year."

"It is not worth while to speculate upon the future of a partnership such as this. With brilliancy and learning, eloquence and logic, combined with strong individualities and high degrees of lovable personal magnetism, its success is already assured. The firm of Franklin & Talbott will be—in fact is—one of the greatest in all Kentucky."

Richmond Hotel Sold.

The Commercial Hotel of Richmond, was sold under the hammer Saturday afternoon to Messrs. W. Bush Allen and Jesse Cogar, both of that city. The consideration was $22,000, which is less than one-half of the cost of construction of the building and equipment.

Free Sample Aids Old Men

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly and in consequence many elderly men suffer not only from the basic trouble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and then to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary but harmful, and something mild will do the work just as well.

After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do only temporary good at best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative tonic that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and yet is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist, who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money, send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and he will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and families like Mr. O. F. Wisner's of Eycamore, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culter's of 325 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its grand value to every member of the family. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

Burley Society Wins a Point.

The Burley Tobacco Society and members of the American Society of Equity won a temporary victory in the United States Court in Covington Monday in the suit of James J. Scott and others of Seranton, Pa., doing business under the firm name of Clark & Scott, when the court handed down an opinion sustaining a general demurrer of the defendants to the petition of the plaintiffs.

Clark & Scott sued for $135,520.40, or three fold damages for injuries said to have been sustained when they were compelled to purchase from the Burley Tobacco Society many thousands of pounds of tobacco at a price named by the society. They contend that but for the existence of the tobacco society they could have purchased the tobacco at a fraction over eight cents per pound and that they were compelled to pay seventeen and eighteen cents per pound for the same grade of tobacco.

They said that the contract was in violation of the interstate commerce law and that they were entitled to three times the actual amount of damages said to have been sustained.

The actual total difference in the true value of the tobacco which was of the 1906 and 1908 crops and the price paid was $43,506.80. The petition of Clark & Scott was the first of four similar suits filed against the Burley society, the damage asked in all aggregating nearly $1,000,000. Lovell & Buffington of Covington, asking for over $500,000; Frisvuth Bros., of Philadelphia, Pa., asking for over $163,000 and the E. O. Eshelby Tobacco Company of Covington, asking for a large amount.

Clark & Scott were manufacturers of chewing and smoking tobacco. After the suit was filed it was watched with great interest by tobacco men in all parts of the country, it being said that it was the entering wedge of one of three different kinds of attacks made through the courts upon the alleged tobacco monopoly.

The defendants fought the case bitterly, employing some of the best legal talent in Kentucky to aid them in their battle. Among those employed were United States Senator William O. Bradley, T. L. Edelen of Frankfort, and Pendleton, Bush & Bush, of Winchester.

They filed a general demurrer to the petition of Clark & Scott and it was this demurrer which was sustained, although the court at the same time handed down an opinion allowing the plaintiffs to amend their petition. This will be done and the case finally will be tried upon its merits.

In their brief filed in support of their demurrer the defendants contended that the contract between Clark & Scott for the purchase of the tobacco did not relate to interstate commerce, and that the defendants were clearly within the jurisdiction of the State of Kentucky.

A fair crowd was in attendance upon Carlisle court Monday. All branches of business was brisk and much better than the court of the year past. There was a scarcity of stock and what was offered for sale was disposed of at from 4 to 4 1/2 cents. A number of plug horses were offered and sold around $100. Henry S. Caywood of North Middletown bought a horse for $175, a mule colt for $70 and a yearling colt at $95. John Larue of Shawhan, sold 15 head of yearling mules to Newt Rankin at $140 per head. John McGinley sold a combination horse to a Cynthiana party for $150.

Unusual Election Bet.

An unusual election bet is told of by the Carlisle Advocate as follows:

"An election bet was paid in full Saturday by H. B. Bryson. For the past six years Mr. Bryson and Frank Mathias have been making novel bets on the Congressional elections. Last year Mathias lost on Kehoe's election and the result was that he had to roll a hickory nut around the court house with a crowbar. The wager this time was that the one losing had to yell three times at three different locations for the opposing candidate. A large number gathered in front of the court house to witness the fulfillment of Mr. Bryson's unpleasant duty."

NEVER WORKED

"Impossible! No servant girl ever worked for us."

Two Wills Probated.

In Judge Denis Dundon's court, the will of the late Mrs. Lizzie S. Brooks was probated. After directing that her just debts and funeral expenses be paid, the testatrix leaves to her brother, John W. Peck, of Bates county, Missouri, the sum of $100 per year as long as he lives, and to her niece, Miss Arabella Redmon, the sum of $50 per year as long as she lives. The residue of her personal property, and a farm 200 acres of land near Comargo, Montgomery county, is left to her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Cram, for life, and then to revert to her children. Mrs. Cram is named in document as the executrix of the estate. The will is dated October 28, 1903, and is witnessed by W. B. Allen and George D. Bell.

The last will and testament of the late Mrs. Julia F. Steele was also probated by Judge Dundon. The testatrix, after noting the fact that her three daughters, Ida, Ella and Anna Steele, had been liberally provided for to the exclusion of their sisters and brothers, by her uncle, the late T. K. Marsh, and desiring to leave her children equally protected, wills to the beneficiaries of Mr. Marsh's estate the sum of $50 each. The remainder of her estate, land and personal property, is left equally to her daughter, Margaret, and son, John Steele. In the case of the former the money is to be invested in real estate as the beneficiary may direct and to remain separate from any claim, debt or control of any husband that she may have. If she dies without issue the property is to revert to her brother, John, and in the event of his dying without children, the same rule applies. In the event both children die without issue, then the property at their death is to revert to the three sisters, Ida, Ella and Anna. The will is dated Dec. 22, 1892, and is witnessed by Robert C. Talbott and Harmon Stitt.

The will of the late Julius Herrick was offered for probate but was rejected upon the ground that the document was written before his recent marriage.

Duckie May be Cause of Suit.

Great excitement prevails at Jacktown and perhaps they will air their troubles in court. Mrs. Julia Moore lives in Nicholas on east side of Hinkston creek, which creek is spanned by an ancient wooden bridge, the best in Kentucky. Mrs. Moore had a setting of duck eggs. She had no hen to set the eggs under. Mrs. Lou Bentley said she had a hen setting and would set the eggs on the shares. When the hatching took place only one duckling came forth. So when the duckling was ripe for picking Mrs. Bentley effected it. Mrs. Moore became indignant and is now talking about bringing suit. Whose duck and in what county shall suit be brought? The duckling now swims on the clear waters of Hinkston, which is the dividing line of Nicholas and Bourbon counties.

THANKSGIVING.

Sweet peace, with folded wings,
broods o'er the land,
While harvest fields yield up their
bounteous store,
And work awaits each honest toil-
er's hand,
To bring contentment to his humble door.
The barns are stacked with wealth
of precious gold,
To feed the nation through the coming year.
From granaries the needful seed is sold,
While loud the song of Industry
we hear.
But who has blest the fruitful crops
so dear,
And kept the people from the dread
of war;
What hand has guided us like
mighty star,
To smooth the frown of toil and bitter tear?
'Tis God, the great and mighty giver
good;
Thanksgiving loud to him forever be.
He lifts our head to give us strengthening food,
And spreads our wealth and goods from sea to sea.

"BLACK MEATY."

(The Tale of a Turkey, by Itself).
I was born on a farm. Not on a roulet table nor on a battleship nor
on a cake of ice, but on a farm.
Turkeys have a habit of being on a farm, and I was just like other turkeys.

When I first knew I was alive I thought I wasn't. They had me in a cramped, dark, rounded chamber with smooth, white walls. I guessed they were white. There was no room to scratch. So I pushed against all sides of it and broke out.
They say this was an egg. After I was out I had no desire to go back again. Some people feel this way about jail.

At first existence was joyous to me. I ran round on my little blue legs picking up worms and bread crumbs and seeds and pieces of gravel and experience. And at night
I huddled up with the other turkeys against the warm bosom of the steam heat. Mother never chided us. She was an incubator.

But as I began to get better acquainted with the world I learned to know some of its disadvantages.
Enemies were many — rats, owls, wet weather, fussy chickens who fight you for your food, and puppy dogs. But as I grew I soon taught the chickens their place, and ran away from all the other things but wet weather. We young turkeys had only one friend, a human being.
The human being had copious whiskers, indicating that he was to be trusted. He always saw to it that I had eats enough, and nursed me through my first attack of pip. I brought one sorrow into his life —
he worried greatly that the food I ate seemed to go mostly to bone and feathers.

Little happened except that I grew. After a while I grew faster and fatter than many of my brethren, which caused me to give them
the giggle. And I grew beautiful.
Because of my brilliant stove polish feathers they called me "Black Meaty." The young human beings used to pet me, at a distance. Arriving at gobblehood I had heavy purple wattles on my head and a wiry plume growing out of my breast. Neighbors of the human being came to look at me. I suppose
he thought they wanted to steal me,
for he isolated me in a small coop.
But I was given even more to eat and waxed corpulent through lack of exercise. But who wants to exercise when one can eat?

But, ah, I began to see a light.
Other turkeys were treated like I was, and these, headless and denuded of their glad plumage, passed out of the barnyard by the wagon-load. Dead turkeys DO tell tales.
My faith in the whiskered human being shattered. I decided that starvation in the woods was preferable to such a fate. I tried to flee.
Alas, when I tried to, one fatal morning at dawn, the human being headed me off with an ax.
Here is Thanksgiving day and my burial. Bury me under your belt.
Let the clouds of stuffing fall dully on my corpse. See that my grave is trimmed in cranberry jelly and add a stalk of celery to mark the last resting place of your unfortunate friend "Black Meaty."

Thankofferings.

How shall we thank Him? In praise
and prayer,
On bended knee at the altar, where
In crimson leaf and in sheaf of gold
The seed time and harvest tale is told?
At the laden table where tried and true
Love and friendship their joys renew?

The loaf we share and the sheltering roof
Of our grateful spirit may be the proof;
The willing service, the ungrudging
wage,
The peace of our home's blest anchorage,
The cheering signal of hope we lift
To souls on the sea of doubt adrift,
The songs we set on the lips of pain,
The sacrifice for another's gain,
Than the voice of prayer or of praise
not less
May witnesses be to our thankfulness.

TREATMENT IN THANKSGIVING

In this day when the world is full of counsel of every kind and nearly every earnest person is out with some program or recommendation as to what is needed, there is one piece of advice that seems to be very rarely given. And yet it is one which in the early days of Christianity was always put to the fore and insisted on with such regularity that it is hard to see why in our day it is sediment emphasized. We hear a great deal about nerves, and mind cure, and psychotherapy of all sorts, until we get to thinking that those first Christians never really got hold of the things that trouble us most. And we have heard so often the prescriptions
they gave for run-down spiritual lives
that we feel we need something more modern. But one of the ingredients that scarcely ever failed to find its way into their prescriptions was Thanksgiving. They believed that many were weak and sickly for no other reason than that this element
in life had fallen to low proportions.
Yet how often have we heard anybody, in giving a diagnosis of a broken down life, say to another: "What you need is a course of treatment in Thanksgiving?"

One of the most potent factors in making people neglect their Bibles is that they come to feel that the writers were just saying things which they felt they ought to say; and most of us are never particularly helped by hearing anybody who simply says what he thinks he ought to say. But a good robust conviction always helps us, and we shall never get the Bible back for the vital thing it is until we realize that in it men are not saying what they felt they ought to, but rather what they were driven to say
by their own experience.

Probably everybody recognizes the general duty of Thanksgiving, but general duties are just the ones that we leave to chance. Not until the habit of gratitude and recognition become definite and particular duty are we likely to do anything about it.

We are vigilant enough in our moral lives oftentimes, and we pray enough, and we are very earnest; and yet for all that we often feel that something is wrong, something is missing. We watch, but we do not do it with thanksgiving. We watch rather with anxiety, complaint and strain. We let our requests be made known to God, but not with thanksgiving. We think we can put that in at any time. We always mean to do that element some time, but do not do it in the present difficulty or stress because it seems to most of us rather an adornment of prayer than one of prayer's most invigorating elements.
Or we think thanksgiving will come
of itself when the pressure of happiness grows strong enough. Or we fall into that old common swindle of the spontaneous, and think that, to be sincere, thanksgiving ought to spring up all of itself. There is just the mistake. It is not a spontaneous thing, like the other noblest qualities of life, it is something to be worked over and practiced. If Paul had felt that it was an automatic thing which took care of itself, if he had regarded it as a sort of exuberance which would burst up out of one's life whenever circumstances were suitable to it, we may be sure he would not have taken such pains to put it in everywhere, and insist upon it and urge it.
One suspects that there was something deeply autobiographic in his constant insistence on this point, and that Paul was one who would soon have sunk down into a complaining creature if he had not taken pains with this faculty, which dies out in so many of us just because we are not aware that it is one of the things that demand painstaking.

In our day we try to meet the world's needs by answering each one of its complaints. But what is really most dangerous to men is not that some of their complaints should be neglected, but that they should fall into habit of comparing that fastens
upon them until it becomes inveterate, constitutional and incurable. And that is just the condition into which many lives fall. Ten thousand complaints may be satisfied, but things be no better for it, while we go on believing that the next satisfaction will be final. Alas, it never is. Somethings else is needed; and only hard work, and deliberate attention, and a prolonged course of treatment, will make operative our lives that great quality of gratitude with all its illuminating power. One of our greatest perils is that the prevailing type of the Christian life shall get to be like that mood in which John Foster said
most evangelical divines 100 years ago ended their days, "a mood of gently complaining melancholy." What better description of the prevailing tone of the New Testament could we give than to say it is the exact opposite of that?

But when there is some imperative and unfulfilled need in our life, and we have discovered it, ought we not to put that before our eyes exclusively until it be met? Never. We shall get the most truthful attitude toward the unattained by taking the right position toward what has already been achieved. Forgetting the thousand and one times in which we have been brought off victorious is but a poor way of getting ready for another victory. It is not a good sign in our people at the present time that they give so little recognition to the things that have been done and done right,

the things that are honest and of good report.

Even when we are humbled to the very ground by our latest sin, and feel that thanksgiving is no proper mood
for us then—when it even shames us to remember our blessings—to give thanks even then for all the rest of our life that our Father has permitted to stand firm and untouched would make our confession and repentance a truer thing. But it takes power to put it in. We are not readily equal to it. It is not the mark of a shallow optimism to be thankful. The shallow optimist is not thankful, he is just lazy and pleasant; it takes a profoundly exercised soul and a disciplined one to thank God in circumstances where the ordinary soul sees no possibility of thanks. We may have done wrong but we shall see this wrong all the more clearly and sanely, and repent of it the more perfectly, by seeing it against the unchanged background of God's righteous and kindly dealings.

And then a steadily complaining attitude introduces sort of falseness into our whole situation. It was said by one of the friends of a very earnest and noble worker that if he did not stop his ceaseless complaining about things he would soon cease to have any influence. The man did not realize that, in his sincere effort to make things better by exposing all the difficulties and hindrances, he was all the time convincing people that things were so hopeless that it was not worth while to work at them.
If he had made his complaints with thanksgiving he would have put heart
in people.

Now the truth is that the very circumstances in which we feel that complaint is the only valid attitude may be the very circumstances in which one might just as well give thanks. It does not depend on circumstances, it depends upon us. Thanksgiving, like other great powers in us, is not an occasional exuberance, but
is a power to be gained by thoughtful attention and practice. If a hundred more good things were added to us,
they, of themselves, could not make us thankful unless we worked directly for that spirit. Nothing that can happen from the outside can ever change
this for us. Something must happen from within. And, knowing in himself the growth of a thankless spirit,
the Psalmist took himself in hand
and said: "I will be glad and rejoice
in thee," just as he would have said,
"I will" do anything else. Let any one try this for six months, and make it his discipline, and he will see a difference in his whole life.

Thanksgiving Goodies.

Colonial pudding—Mix one cupful of suet, one cupful Porto Rico molasses, pinch of salt, three cupfuls of flour, one cupful seeded raisins, one fourth teaspoonful cloves, three-fourths teaspoonful cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoonful nutmeg, one cupful sweet milk, one teaspoonful of soda, sift the soda with the flour,
one cupful broken hickory nut meats.
Steam in a greased mold for three hours and serve with an egg sauce.

Egg sauce. Cream one fourth cupful butter, add one-half cupful granulated sugar, one-eighth teaspoonful salt, pinch of pulverized mace, add
the well beaten yolks of two eggs;
then pour in this one-half cupful of hot milk; cook over hot water until the custard coats the spoon; remove from the fire and pour gradually over the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs,
beaten constantly.

Black cake: Beat one cupful butter to a cream, add one cupful sugar; beat until very light; then add one cupful molasses and after mixing thoroughly add four cupfuls of flour in which sift one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon, one-quarter of a nutmeg
grated, one-half teaspoonful cloves, one cupful each of dried currants and seeded raisins and one cupful strong coffee. After blending thoroughly add the stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in a paper lined tin, greasing the paper. It will take two hours in a moderate oven to bake this cake. When cold cover with yellow icing put on roughly and decorate with strips of citron cut to represent sheaves of wheat, a bit of icing placed about the sheaves to represent the strings holding them together.

Maple ice-cream. Heat a pint of thick maple syrup just to the boiling point. Remove from the fire while you beat six eggs thoroughly.
Then add the syrup very slowly, beating all the time. Return to the fire in a double boiler and cook until the mixture will coat a spoon dipped into
it. When cold, add a pint of thick cream beaten slightly, one teaspoonful each of vanilla and lemon, and freeze.

Fruit cookies:—One and one-fourth cupfuls of butter and two cupfuls of brown sugar creamed together; add four eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, and one level teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a very little hot water. Stir this into one cupful of sour cream, add two cupfuls of chopped raisins, spice to taste and flour enough to roll. Cut and bake in a quick oven. These will improve with age.

Prohibition mince pie: One peck
of green tomatoes chopped fine,
five pounds of brown sugar, two pounds of raisins, two pounds of currants, two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon, cloves and allspice, two nutmegs, 1 1/2 tablespoonfuls of salt.
Boil from three to four hours. Twenty minutes before done add one cupful of vinegar. Pies made with a rich crust and this mincemeat are delicious.

ONLY ONE CHANCE FOR JASPER.

His Qualifications as Viewed by the Young Girl and Her Mother.

"I should like to ask you one question, Euphorbia," said her mother, "Are you going to marry Jasper Huxtable?"

There was a cold, steely glitter in the young woman's eye, and her lip curled in scorn, as she answered:

"I am not, mamma."

"Yet he seems to be a perfectly unobjectionable young man."

"I am aware of it."

"He is in exceptionally good financial circumstances."

"I have never taken the trouble to find out whether he is or not."

"Your father has. He says he is independently rich."

"Well, what of it?"

"And he is handsome."

"Yes, but no handsomer than half a dozen other men I know."

"He is only five or six years your senior."

"Oh, he's all right, so far as age goes."

"Other girls find him attractive, Euphorbia. What is the reason you do not?"

"I haven't said I don't find him attractive."

"Yet you are not going to marry him?"

"No—nor unless there is a decided reform in his way of conducting himself in one particular!" exclaimed the haughty girl, crushing a bunch of costly hothouse flowers in her shapely hand and flinging them away from her.

"What is that?" anxiously inquired her mother.

"He'll have to ask me to marry him!"—Chicago Tribune.

.. Marrying for Money.

When Mr. Jephson was thinking of marrying a girl "with money," his friend Rogers advised against it for reasons which he was quite ready to give.

"My boy," he said, "before I was married my wife inherited $500 from her grandfather. The whole town knew it. When I built a store, they smiled."

"His wife's money," they said.

"When I built a house, the same smile went round."

"His wife's money."

"After a while I took stock in the new gas and electric company."

"Aha!" said the treasurer, "I see you are investing some of your wife's money."

"All my life that poor little $500 has received the credit for everything I have been able to achieve."

"As a matter of fact my wife spent the money the day she got it for a diamond ring and a piano. She lost the ring a week later, and I guess some of the neighbors have wished heartily that she would lose the piano."

His Choice.

There was nothing wild in the caller's manner, so the lady at the employment bureau desk was rather startled when he told his wants.

"I wish to engage a cook," he observed.

"Fancy or plain?" she said.

"Plain—homely as sin," he replied. "In fact, I don't care whether she can cook or not. Any old thing that looks like a cook will do."

"Really, I—"

"And if she drinks, smokes, or steals silver, so much the better."

"Goodness me! What?"

"I specially desire that she is very strong and in the habit of beating her employer with a club."

"Upon my word!"

"In short I want a rampant, athletic rip-roaring terror, and I can promise good wages."

The lady at the desk was begging Central to connect her with the police department.

"Hold on!" explained the caller. "Allow me to say that the domestic I seek will be in the employ of my wife's mother.—Judge."

His Prescription.

Doctor, I have the strangest feeling. I seem to think that wherever I go there is a man following me."

"Madam, take one glance into a mirror and you will be completely relieved of your delusion."

The Farmer.

The farmer minds his peas (and Q's).

He hives his bees, he tends his ewes; Out in the field his gee and haw Resound above the raven's caw; Until the ground begins to freeze He almost never takes his ease.

But still amidst his toil and cares In all his work the old plow shares.

KICKED A CROWN OFF YOUNG KING

DANCER FOR THE LOVE OF WHOM MANUEL LOST HIS THRONE.

GAVE HER HALF A MILLION

Portuguese Monarch Was More Interested in This Footlight Fairy Than in His People and Soon Became Unpopular.

Lisbon.—When King Manuel ascended the throne after the assassination of his royal father, King Carlos, and his older brother, Crown Prince Luiz Philippe, on Feb. 1, 1908, he found the kingdom in a state of perilous turmoil. The young king had inherited his father's quarrels with the clerical party, the adherents of the pretender, Don Miguel, and the revolutionary party.

It will thus be seen that the spirit of revolt was ripe in Portugal, and while the direct cause of the uprising that has resulted in the overthrow of monarchy in Portugal was the assassination of Professor Bombarda, the most powerful influence leading to the revolt was that of a woman who inveigled the young King into extravagance that brought down upon his head the wrath of his subjects.

The siren in the case is Mlle. Gaby Deslys. Her dancing of the "Jiu Jitsu waltz" won the fancy of young King Manuel, and it was she who figuratively kicked the crown of Portugal from his head.

Mlle. Deslys made a sensation in Berlin and Paris by her Japanese dancing. Manuel, on a pleasure trip to the French capital, saw the girl and promptly went mad over her. He brought her to Lisbon and was seen everywhere in public with her.

This by itself might have done no great harm in his subjects' eyes. But he proceeded to heap rich presents upon her, to load her down with jewels and to buy her everything her fickle fancy happened to crave.

Times were hard. People were clamoring for work. Hunger was more than a mere name in Portugal. When starving men and women beheld the King's sweetheart ablaze with diamonds, whose price was wrung from the state and whose equivalent in food might have saved many a life, trouble set in.

The nation murmured. The King was deaf to the growing voice of complaint and spent more and more money on Mlle. Deslys.

When Marie Antoinette was told in 1789 that the people were dying for lack of bread she asked lightly: "Why don't they eat cake?" When Cleopatra, on a wager with Anthony, dissolved a $250,000 pearl in vinegar and drank it, and when Louis XV. spent the public revenue on baubles for Mme. de Pompadour the mob had muttered, but nothing had come of the discontent.

Manuel, unluckily for his short-sighted young self, was living in a later century. Members of the bankrupt nation did not enjoy seeing $500,000 worth of jewels given by a king to a foreign dancer. (That is the sum Manuel is said to have spent on Mlle. Deslys' adornment.)

But Manuel continued to perform the world-old kingly feat of dancing on a volcano. His favorite holiday was Paris. There, so riotously gay was he that the French police were forced to take him in tow and to close various famous local resorts whenever he was in the city.

As in the case of Henry III of France and other royalties of the same tastes, the "fling" lasted just a trifle longer than did the sore tried patience of the people. Manuel awoke to find himself kicked off his throne and to know he had thrown away a kingly career at the feet of a dancing girl.

A MODERN FABLE.

It Comes From the West to Instruct People in the East.

Once upon a time a Lively Bass migrated from the Clear Water of the River in which he was Born and Raised and found a Home in a Muddy Pool where Catfish were his only Neighbors.

He was greatly Disgusted with his new Surroundings. He gave his Neighbors, therefore, Daily Lectures on their Filthy Habits, and announced his Determination to clear up the Muddy Pool. So long as he confined himself to lectures they endured him with patient Resignation.

But later on he procured a Supply of Reform Alum, and began to Distribute it through the Muddy Water in order to clarify it.

Thereupon an old Catfish with Long Horns waited upon him, and said to him in a Firm, Determined Tone of Voice:

"Young Man, you are getting altogether too Fresh. My friends and my family and myself have resided in this muddy pool since the days of the Sea Serpent, and have enjoyed the best of health, become Fat and Corpulent, and Lived to a Green Old Age. If it isn't a healthy place for you I guess you would better Move out to another Summer Resort. But if you Distribute any more of that Infernal Alum around this Hole You'll be a Dead Fish, and my family will have you fried Crisp and Brown for our breakfast in the Morning."

Moral: Those who try their level best to reform the world are seldom appreciated by the ones for whose benefit they undertake the reform.

Not a Millionaire.

Mr. Monk—It's a duty you owe to your family, sir, to have your life insured.

Thomas Cat—I would if I knew which one of them to insure. I can't afford to insure the whole nine.

Nothing Doing.

An author who makes a specialty of stories of "our great middle West," with a heart-throb in each, tells of an odd character he met in that region. This odd chap, who afterwards served the author as the main figure of a book that was largely successful, lived alone in a cabin. Woman's care being, of course, unknown, the cabin presented the spectacle of the triumphant reign of dirt and disorder.

Somehow the two chanced to talk of cooking and cooking utensils. "I had one of them cook-books wunst," observed the old fellow, "but I couldn't do nawthin' with it."

"What was the trouble?" asked the author.

"Why, everything in the book began with, 'First take a clean dish.'"

—Harper's Weekly.

An "Exclamatory" Allment.

A colored man in the employ of Representative James D. Richardson of Tennessee was detailing to a friend the particulars of a relative's illness, when according to the Congressman, the following dialogue ensued between the two darkies:

"Yes, sirree!" exclaimed the negro first referred to, "Mose is sure a sick man. He's got exclamatory rheumatism."

"You mean inflammatory rheumatism," explained the better informed colored man: "do word 'exclamatory' means to yell."

"Yes, sir, I knows it does," quickly responded the other, in a tone of decided conviction, "and dat's jest what de trouble is—de man jest yells all de time."—Success.

It Was Not His Fault.

District Attorney W. T. Jerome is said to have told an amusing little story of a certain minor "boss" who carries in the pocket of his broad-checked vest the votes of an east side ward. As the winter drew on this boss was approached by one of his retainers with a tale of hard luck and a request for help.

"Help you? Why, didn't I get them to promise you a job with the snow-shovelling gang?" the boss demanded.

"Sure," the voter replied; "but it hasn't snowed this winter."

"Well," the boss exclaimed, petulantly, "I can't help that! Do you think I'm runnin' the Weather Bureau.—Success."

The Minister and the Gamekeeper.

A Scottish parish minister met the laird's gamekeeper one day and said to him, "I say, Davidson, why is it I never see you in church?" "Well, sir," replied Davidson, "I don't want to hurt the attendance." "Hurt the attendance! What do you mean?" asked the minister in surprise. "Well, sir, you see," replied the gamekeeper, "there are about a dozen men in the parish that go to church when I'm not there and would go poaching if I went to church."—Glasgow Herald.

GIRL CLIMBS CLIFF 400 FEET HIGH TO ESCAPE TIDE

CAUGHT ON SANDS BY RUSHING WATER AND FORCED TO SCALE PROMONTORY.

London.—The fishing village of Runswick, beloved by artists, on the Yorkshire coast, recently witnessed an exciting adventure.

Three visitors—two young women and a man—set out from Whitby to Runswick, walking by way of Kettle-ness and the sands of Runswick bay. They were overtaken at the bay by the tide, which was running in very strongly before a stiff northeasterly breeze. The imperilled party endeavored to escape by climbing up the cliffs, which there rise about 400 feet. The man and one young woman found the task beyond their powers and descended again to the beach. Their predicament was observed from Runswick and three men—George Patton, John Clark and Edward Clark—hurried down to render assistance. By scrambling through the surf and over rocks the young woman and her companion got around the foot of the cliff and escaped with a droning.

The remaining young woman, with commendable skill and nerve, persevered in her very difficult ascent of the "Clamer" and reached a stage fifty feet from the top, where a layer of perpendicular freestone barred her progress. She was watched by the inhabitants of the village from across the bay, and the young fisherman already named descended to her and eventually guided her to safety, after a climb the equal of which is not remembered in the locality.

DOG WINS OVER THE JURY

Makes Friends With Men in the Box and Secures Verdict in His Owner's Favor.

Spokane, Wash.—Spot, a big brown bird dog owned by Robert Roddas, accused of driving Beth, a cow belonging to Byron A. Wilson, into a barbed wire fence and causing its death, was acquitted by a jury in the Spokane County Superior Court, where Judge William A. Huneke presided. The jurors were out eight minutes.

The dog was a witness in its own behalf over the objections of counsel for Wilson and won instant favor by its behavior. When called Spot advanced to the jury box and extended its paw to each of the 12 jurors in turn and barked playfully until taken out of the courtroom by the bailiff. A dozen men and women also gave testimony for and against the dog, but as there were no eyewitnesses and the evidence was purely circumstantial, as Judge Huneke said in his charge, the jury gave Spot the benefit of the doubt and returned a verdict of "not guilty."

Wilson, who sought $75 damages for the killing of his cow, may appeal the case to a higher court on technical grounds.

Drives Mower Over Child.

Vesper, Kan.—H. Nelson, a farmer, drove a mowing machine over the body of his two-year-old son, Stanley, leaving the child with a deep cut and a piece of flesh torn out of his arm.

Mr. Nelson was at work with a big mower in a kafir corn field and did not know that the child, who had come into the field and lain down in a furrow, was anywhere near until he saw him as the mowed passed over the little body.

The sickle tore the child's dress to shreds, but although painfully hurt, the infant made no outcry and got up and walked away. The father fainted when the accident occurred.

Chair Cord Strangles Baby.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—When Mrs. John Wade of Pembroke was called to another part of her residence to attend to some household duties, she left her infant daughter in a chair about which a cord was tied to keep the little one from falling out. On her return to the room she found the baby dead. In an effort to get to the floor the child had slipped out of the chair and the string had caught her around the neck, strangling her.

Prof. W. T. St. Clair, an inmate of the Kentucky Eastern Asylum, Lexington, despondent over his mental condition, committed suicide by hanging himself in his room in one of the wards at the institution yesterday morning at ten o'clock. Prof. St. Clair, who was aged fifty years, was sent to the institution in May 1910, and a few weeks ago being given the privilege of the grounds escaped, going to Louisville and then to Danville, from which place he was returned to the asylum. His remains will be brought to Paris where they will be interred in the Paris cemetery beside those of his deceased parent. He is survived by a wife and grown son, the latter being in business in Mexico City.

MATRIMONIAL.

—The marriage of Miss Mayne Barkley Shropshire to Mr. Carl O. Wilmoth was celebrated Tuesday afternoon at "Springdale," the beautiful country home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Shropshire, at Leesburg, Harrison county.

The wedding was one of the prettiest events of the early fall. The halls and parlors of the beautiful home were artistically decorated with palms, ferns and trailing smilax.

Mrs. S. A. Macey presided at the piano and during the arrival of the guests rendered several beautiful selections.

Promptly at two o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the wedding party entered the parlors. First came Master James Patterson, nephew of the bride, in a white serge suit, accompanied by little Miss Carolyn Wilmoth, a veritable wee fairy in a dainty lace dress with yellow ribbons. These two tiny elves carried ribbon bands, forming an aisle for the bridal party.

Then came Rev. Frank Tinder, who took his place in front of the mantle, which was banked with handsome plants. Next came Mrs. White Forman Varden, a beautiful matron, charmingly attired in a gown of white Philippine cloth over yellow satin, with lace trimmings. She carried an immense bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. She was accompanied by her husband, Mr. White Forman Varden.

Then slowly down the stairway came the radiant bride alone. She wore a handsome gown of white chiffon cloth over brocade satin, studded with pearls, with trimmings of Duchess and real lace. The bridal veil was caught to the hair with a bandeau of pearls, and she carried a huge bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bride was met at the foot of the stairway by the groom and together they proceeded to the parlor where the Rev. Tinder made them one in a very impressive ceremony.

Immediately after the wedding a short reception was held, after which the bridal party motored to the station and took the south bound train for Atlanta and other Southern cities. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends in this city. They were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents.

The bride is one of the most popular and beautiful young ladies of Central Kentucky. The groom is one of Paris' most splendid young men, being the assistant postmaster in this city. This prominent and popular young couple have the best wishes of myriads of friends.

Among those from Paris who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. May, Mr. and Mrs. Withers Davis, Messrs. Wm. Taylor, Fay Ardery, Chas. Fithian and Fred Batteredton, Mr. and Mrs. George Batteredton, Miss Mary Batteredton, Misses Lucille and Margaret Morris, Mrs. W. O. Davis, Mrs. Nellie Highland, Miss Clara Bacon, Misses Carolyn Roseberry and Katherine Thompson, Mrs. Roy Clendennin and Mrs. Frank Kier, Tom Wilmoth and Charles Wilmoth.

—The Carlisle Advocate says: "At the home of the bride's parents on Tuesday, November 22, Miss Sallie A. Kookendoffer and Mr. Miller Jones, both of this county, will be united in marriage. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kookendoffer and is an attractive young lady, while Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Jones of near Millersburg, and is an industrious young man."

Decline in Cost of Living Begins

A dispatch from New York Tuesday says: "Reports from various parts of the country indicating a fall in the price of meats, are reflected by similar reports from local dealers. They say the decline has already begun, the wholesale price of beef having gone off on an average of three-quarters of a cent in the last week."

"One of the leading dealers said that sirloin steak that had brought 24 cents a pound was now selling at 22 cents. Porterhouse steak, he said, was down 3 cents a pound, selling now at 25 cents, whereas it had brought 28 cents. Fresh pork products, however, show the greatest drop, the market dealers selling cuts for roasting at 18 cents a pound, that have within a short time been bringing 22 cents."

"Lard is down 2 cents a pound, the price yesterday being 18 cents. The best grades of ham and bacon, on the contrary, show hardly any change. This is accounted for by the length of time it takes in curing. The dealers say the stocks of cured meats are very light, and it will naturally be some time before the increased production of hogs offsets this condition.

"The marketmen attribute the relief from high prices to the enormous corn crop and the consequent low price of the cereal. Low prices of feed, combined with the past high prices of pork, they say, have resulted, as was expected, in an increased raising of hogs."

—Total receipts of live stock on the Chicago market for week ending November 5 were 80,500 cattle, 104,000 hogs and 153,700 sheep. The week's receipts, compared with previous week, in round numbers increased 2,900 cattle, decreased 7,900 hogs and 46,100 sheep. Compared with corresponding week last year cattle increased 5,200, hogs decreased 4,800 and sheep increased 59,500. The average prices were cattle $6.45, hogs $8.06, sheep $3.80, and lambs $6.25. The average on corresponding week of last year was cattle $6.35, hogs $7.84, sheep $4.40, and lambs $6.80. The general average from 1901 to 1909 were cattle $5.50, hogs 5.82, sheep $4.10, and lambs $5.83.

—Several hundred turkeys were delivered at Carlisle Friday, the first Nicholas county birds to be delivered there for the Thanksgiving market. They are bringing 13 cents on foot and will be dressed and shipped to the Pittsburg markets. The crop is not as plentiful this year as usual.

—Turkeys are selling at 13 cents a pound on foot in Boyle county. The dressed fowl will be about 25 cents per pound on the Danville market this Thanksgiving according to the information given out by dealers in that city.

—A dispatch from Barboursville says the Knox county tobacco growers have begun to strip their tobacco. The crop this year, it is said, exceeds by five times the product of last year and reports from Clay and Laurel counties are that an equally large gain has been made. The quality this year is up to last year's high average and growers expect to realize a good price. Several buyers are looking over the crops.

Sunflower Philosophy.

A church member is regarded as liberal if he has a good many friends among the sinners.

We have always had a notion that a favorite stunt of the impudent men is to apply at the cash stores for credit.

Conscience will disturb at guilty man as long as a dyspeptic can taste pork sausage, or a doughnut fried in grease.

If you are knocked out, don't give up too easily. Look yourself over; there is another fight in you, if you will cut out your fool ways.

While women are the greatest churchgoers, we have observed that they are more likely to discuss hats than the sermon when they return.

The people are watching you all the time as much as they watch a candidate during a campaign. The only safe course is to be careful every day.

You will never know what a real crank is until you become acquainted with an art crank. The prohibition crank, and the lodge crank are pretty bad, but they lack the enthusiasm for idiosyncrasy that distinguishes the art crank.

At last the silence is broken and the Colonel declares the fight for "progressive popular government" has only begun. Possibly not, but if the finish is anything like the beginning the Colonel had best leave off where he started and take another course.

HELLO GIRL AND HEIRESS IN FIGHT

COULDN'T GET HER PARTY; MILLIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER GOES AFTER "CENTRAL."

ANGERED BY "LINE'S BUSY"

Young Woman at the Switchboard Resented the Calling Down, They Mixed, and the Two Rolled Down Stairs Into the Street.

Fayette City, Pa.—Incensed over the continual repetition of the phrase "Line's busy," while she and her guests were delayed at bridge whist because of an absent friend, Miss Hazel Gillen, daughter of John Gillen, the millionaire horseman and ice manufacturer of Fayette City, the other night left her home and her guests to investigate the local Bell telephone exchange and learn the reason she could not get phone connections with a young woman she wanted to "fill in."

Trouble was found and plenty of it, as was demonstrated when Miss Gillen reached the head of the first flight of stairs at the exchange. A whirlwind in the form of the much-abused "Central," Miss Lillian Usher, enveloped her, and a second later both young women were rolling down the stairs and onto the sidewalk, in each other's arms, while the air was filled with a choice collection of worse than slang phrases.

The young women took a death grip at each other on the sidewalk, when they stopped rolling, and to the amusement of a crowd of men and boys proceeded to pull hair and attempt to choke each other for several minutes, until one man stepped forward and separated them.

Hair rats, side combs and one switch, which neither of the young women will acknowledge to own, were picked up on the sidewalk. In the meantime the father of the young social leader was entertaining the guests at the Gillen home, but within a few minutes the bridge party was broken up when the hostess, with her hair hanging down her back, a deep scratch on one cheek, a black and blue eye and her faultless evening costume in tatters, was assisted on to the porch and into the hall, where a maid and her father took charge of her and carried her to her room.

Influence was used against the telephone operator and Miss Usher was asked to resign. She escaped with only a few bruises and one slight scratch.

MAN WITH A BUG IN HIS EAR

Light and Heat From Burning Matches Finally Induced the Insect to Back Up.

Colwyn, Pa.—The light and heat from burning matches held close to John Sanders' ear induced an insect that was driving Sanders almost insane with pain to back out of his ear. Sanders was not aware that the bug had crawled into his ear until it reached the inner membranes, when he began to suffer excruciatingly. The insect tried to go further, and the pain became more intense, when a fellow-worker lighted a match to make a better examination, and the pain suddenly ceased. The moment the light ceased, however, the pain began; but as soon as another match was lighted and held close to Sanders' ear the pain stopped.

After a box of matches had been used the insect, which responded to the light, had almost entirely emerged, and was removed and killed.

Spanked Wife by Precedent.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Pleading guilty in the Camden police court to a charge of assault and battery in spanking his wife, Frank Gatz, 27 years old, said:

"I didn't think I was violating the law, because I often saw my father spank my mother, and he wasn't arrested."

He did the spanking, he said, in a fit of anger because his wife failed to have his supper ready when he returned from work. Mrs. Gatz withdrew the charge when he promised never to spank her again, and they left the City Hall together.

—We have it on good authority that one of our worthy bachelors has rented the house now occupied by Elder W. A. Gardner, and will take a bride to it some time in January. This will keep some people guessing for a while.

—The meeting at the Methodist church is increasing in interest. Rev. J. B. Harris, the evangelist, who is conducting the meeting, preached a strong sermon to Christians Monday afternoon on the text, "Ye Are the Salt of the Earth." At night the text was taken from James 5-20, "Let him know that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall have a soul from death." He was forceful in the presentation of two leading thoughts, that if all the suffering of earth was summed up for all time it would not equal the suffering of one soul throughout eternity; that if all the joy of earth for all time was brought together it would be less than the happiness of one soul throughout eternity. It was therefore a work of infinite importance to save a soul from death. In response to a proposition that all who wished to pray for the power of the Holy Spirit to lead souls to Christ and all who wished to pray for their own salvation should come forward. The altar was filled and a number of the front benches and several professed conversion. One interesting feature of the service was a song by Mrs. Ora LeBus of Cynthia, and Mrs. C. M. Best, of this city. A number of visitors were present from Salt Well, who were workers in a meeting held there recently by Rev. Harris. Tuesday afternoon services were for children and like those of Sunday the discourse was strong and forcible. Tuesday night marked the beginning of the large week night crowds and interest has been growing ever since. Services will continue each afternoon and evening at three and seven o'clock until further notice.

No News from Jake Noble.

No news from Jake Noble, the mountain desperado, who is being hunted in Breathitt county, has yet been reported. The report from Salsersville that Noble had been killed proved to be false. Sheriff Breck Combs, of Jackson, was in Lexington Wednesday and said Noble had not been arrested. Noble is still at large with no apparent effort on the part of the officers of the county to effect his capture.

Wesley Turner, Sr., was Tuesday appointed jailer of Breathitt county by County Judge J. Wise Hagins to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Jailer J. Wesley Turner, Jr., who was killed by Noble on the night of the election. The newly appointed jailer is the father of the late jailer, and is eighty years of age.

Reports from Hamilton, Ohio, indicate that Noble has escaped from Breathitt county and has reached there, and that efforts will be made to arrest him. A dispatch from Hamilton is as follows:

"Bad Jake" Noble, wanted in Breathitt county, Kentucky, for the murder of Jailer Wesley Turner, Jr., of Jackson, is in Hamilton and talked to several people here, according to reports received at Police headquarters Wednesday morning. A diligent search will be made for him, and trouble is expected before he is captured."

Death Knell to Night Riding.

"Vest: Get out of Warsaw and stay out. Pants and Coat. B. H." This letter, written to John L. Vest, of Walton, Boone county, by unknown parties living in Warsaw, Gallatin county, caused the indictment of O. P. Morton and his wife, Nora, on the charge of "banding and confederating to intimidate, disturb and alarm" Vest, under Sub-section 6 of Section 1241-a of the Kentucky Statutes.

Woman Tells Pitiful Story.

Chas. Meenacher was arrested in Cincinnati Tuesday night charged with violating his parole from the Lancaster, O., reformatory, where he was serving a sentence for assault. His wife, Louise Meenacher, aged 20 years, was found Wednesday at her home in that city weeping bitterly because her husband of a few months was behind prison bars.

The little woman said she had been deceived by Meenacher, who married her under the name of C. Harry De Long. She declared he had forced her to leave her father's home in Carlisle, Ky., at the point of a gun, when he was being pursued by an officer from the prison, who had learned of his whereabouts. She told of a midnight trip over the country roads to Lexington, Ky.

Mrs. Meenacher said that only a week ago her husband told her that he had been married before, and did not know where his first wife was. The woman declared she no longer loved him and wanted nothing more to do with him. This indictment having been dismissed by the Boone Circuit Court on the ground that the jurisdiction belonged in Gallatin county, and that the letter did not come under the statute quoted, was appealed to the Court of Appeals, where the judgment of the lower court is reversed and furnished an occasion for Judge Carroll, of the Appellate Court, to deliver an opinion that will be the death knell to night riding in Kentucky.

While night riding is not mentioned in the opinion, this case furnishes the Court of Appeals an occasion without dissent to construe the law governing confederating and banding together for the purpose of injuring and disturbing the citizens of Kentucky, and this opinion will be an endorsement of the position of Governor Willson on lawlessness since he came into office.

The letter was embellished with the picture of a hand drawn in black ink and pointing to the signature "Coat and Pants."

Where Addison Was Married.

St. Edmund's, Lombard street, London, the rectory of which is vacated by the death of omni-accient Canon Benham, had previously possessed literary associations. The register records the marriage of Joseph Addison to the dowager countess of Warwick on August 9, 1716. Dr. Johnson grimly remarks that this match resembled the marriages in which a sultan gives his daughter a man to be her slave; and Addison used to escape from the uncomfortable splendor of Holland house to a coffee house at Kensington.

Wants to Locate Relatives.

Mr. Harry A. Clark, of Cannelton, Ind., has written to Mrs. Sallie Pullen of this city, in an effort to locate some of his ancestors or their relatives, who are said to have resided in this city. The letter received by Mrs. Pullen is as follows:

Cannelton, Ind., Nov. 14, 1910.

Mrs. Sallie Pullen:

My Dear Madam—I am trying to locate a few early ancestors and am told you have lived in Paris, Ky., a number of years and could probably give me the address of some one by the name of Cotton, for their descendants, living in or near Paris, some one to whom I could write for information of the Cotton family.

My Cotton ancestors moved to Kentucky in an early day from Virginia. My great grandfather, Edmund Cotton, was born in 1764, probably in Virginia, and lived for a while in Nelson county, Ky. I have been told that some of the family lived at Paris before coming to Indiana, and I would like very much to find some of their descendants, so if you will please pardon me for thus addressing you, and can give me any assistance in any way I will greatly appreciate the favor. The address of old people would be best.

Hoping I am not asking too much of you I am

Very Respectfully Yours,

HARRY A. CLARK.

THEATRICAL.

"St. Elmo," the play that gave such general satisfaction here last season, will be the attraction at the Paris Grand on the evening of Thursday, November 24.

The Comet theatre is growing in popularity and each day and evening large crowds frequent this up-to-date place of amusement. Today there will be a complete change of pictures and illustrated songs. Two new reels of comic pictures will be the offering. Next week the management will present the pictures of the World's Championship base ball series between Philadelphia and Chicago. It is not known exactly what day they will be offered but it is more than probable that they will be the feature of Wednesday's program, as the film exchange through which they are secured announce their release after November 21.

"THE FIGHTING PARSON."

"The Fighting Parson," which comes to the Paris Grand on next Saturday night, has been creating quite a sensation since the opening of that attraction in Chicago. W. F. Mann, the producer, has certainly found a big winner, both from an artistic and a financial point of view.

"The Fighting Parson" is what the critics term a real city show because it has been tried and found to ring true. It's a play that appeals to all classes of people without offending any. You cry, you laugh and say to your neighbor, "Wasn't it a delightful performance." It has not met with a reverse criticism since its first presentation in Chicago. The Parson which is of course the leading role, is one that immediately touches the heart of the audience and his appearance is always a signal for applause. This character, supported by a company of clever artists and the scenic portion blending harmonious with the strong cast, makes it one big attraction to be looked forward to.

They say a play without a love story is uninteresting. "The Fighting Parson" has not broken the rule for through the entire production a beautiful love story is told. Good substantial love of the lasting kind. This, with its pathos and comedy, has made "The Fighting Parson" one of the season's successes and everywhere where it has been produced met with instantaneous success from both an artistic as well as financial standpoint. The ministry recommend it because it teaches a moral lesson of right and wrong, yet does not offend the sensitive but sends one home with a feeling of contentment for having seen it.

At the Paris Grand on Saturday, November 19. Seats on sale at Mitchell & Blakemore's. Prices 35, 50 and 75 cents.

But we can add charm and a velvety softness to your skin by our massage treatment. It is impossible for us to supply what nature has not. But if you want a peachy, perfect complexion, you'll start the right way by letting us massage your face with massage creams, the purity of which we are ready to vouch for. It is nature's best aid in restoring healthy skin. You can rub and rub the face with soap and still not get it perfectly clean. The massage way is the only way.
